Reviewer:

The statement "Organizational entrepreneurship involves fostering an entrepreneurial mindset..." lacks citation for "Parsaiian & Arabi, 2018." Ensure references align with APA style.

The "snowball sampling" method is briefly mentioned. Elaborate on the rationale behind choosing this method and its implications for the study's generalizability.

The use of Cronbach's alpha is sound. However, discuss why other reliability measures (e.g., composite reliability) were not considered.

The statement "The Delphi method facilitated expert consensus..." is vague. Include the criteria for consensus and how disagreements were resolved during coding.

Ensure clarity by explaining the significance of a CVR value of 0.49 for readers unfamiliar with the methodology.

The practical recommendations for banking managers are generic. Provide examples or case studies to make them actionable.

Reviewer:

The phrase "Despite these advancements, the banking sector..." could benefit from statistical evidence or specific examples of inefficiencies in banking services.

"Digital technologies, including the Internet, smartphones..." could include a reference to more recent literature beyond 2014-2016, considering rapid technological advancements.

Expand on how cultural and geographical factors influence digital entrepreneurship adoption in banking networks, as this context varies globally.

This is repetitive. Consolidate findings on business model components into one concise sentence for better readability.

Clarify if "Development of financial technologies" and "Creating e-business models" overlap conceptually. How were these dimensions delineated during coding?

The discussion would benefit from contrasting these findings with studies from developed economies, highlighting unique challenges in Iran.
